“ This man, I called Cal everyone else called him Jim was my best friend since March 1985. He later became my husband and we were married for 23 of the 32 years together. We have 2 children of our own and he had 2 children before me that I claim as mine too. He stole my heart in 1985 and has held it captive for all these years! He loved me, all of our kids, our family, traveling to the mountains of Colorado and Oregon. He loved to get me to back up just a little more to see me squirm because the water coming off the side of the mountains was very cold. Unlike Texas where the water is warm, he would get so tickled and laugh every time he got me to fall for that. He loved so many things such as: sunsets; walking the beach hand in hand; being with & doing things with our family; going to the movies; drying my tears at those teary ones; going to church and helping others. Cal was a very sweet man. I have loved him for over half of my life. My heart is broken but I know he is in heaven looking down watching all of those he loved. I miss you Cal and will someday see you again! Forever the love of my life, I love you!
Love,
Vi
