“ in fifth grade Jayshawn was my first, real crush. everyone knew him because of how loud he was and how much trouble he was always in, but i knew him as the funny boy that was always cracking jokes, making me smile. we only talked a handful of times, but ill always remember those beautiful eyes, and sweet smile. unfortunately, once middle school began we split into different schools. i may have not known much about Jayshawn, but i do know that he has left an impact on so many more people than you believe. i thank his family for blessing this world with such a beautiful soul, and i thank him for giving my fifth grade self a reason to go to school everyday.
